

Online Instructor Certification

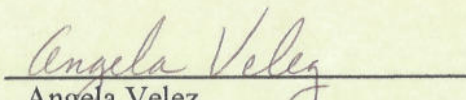

Ray Poirier

November, 2007

This is to certify successful completion of 40 hours of online training, which prepares instructors in the development and teaching of effective online courses.

Course topics included in the training: building learning community; distance education models, online learning theory and learner profiles; the role of interactivity and collaboration; online instructional design; media selection; techniques of online facilitation, assessment, and evaluation; hands-on use of asynchronous and synchronous tools in the Blackboard learning management environment; online course syllabus development; and effective course management techniques.

Julia VanderMolen PhD
Director of Online Instruction

Angela Velez
Faculty Development Coordinator